About Me

I'm a multi-instrumentalist musician, composer and recording artist based in the Dayton, Ohio USA area. I began my professional career as a drummer working in a variety of groups around Dayton from the mid-1970s to the early 1990s.

More recently, I began creating production (stock) music in 2012 and branched out into commercial music in 2015 with the release of my first album-length project, Circadia.

About My Music

I create “music for your media and lifestyle.” My stock music portfolio includes hundreds of tracks of various lengths and styles, including background music for business, film and book trailers, seasonal sounds, intros and loops for podcasters, and more.

My commercial work falls mainly into the categories of ambient or New Age electronic music. I've also released a few motivational stock music tracks commercially under the banner of the “Excelsior” series. I'm less interested in sticking to a particular genre and instead seek to create music that the listener can add to his or her playlist depending on the desired mood.
